

There was a time that violent (or suggestive sexual content) was limited to air times outside the family hour. Now I might see it as early as 7pm. Reinforce the suggested "adult viewing" times and begin enforcing fines for networks that are violaters. This is a better solution than fining for "individual incidents" of sexual situations, profanity, nudity, or violence. If an adult user watches after 9pm...he/she gets what's available. Parents should be monitoring what their children watch, anyhow. Offer parents a "safe time" when they can expect family programming--and an "adult" time. This is all the regulation you need. Thank you.
